Look back on 75 years.
It didn't seem an auspicious start
when, in 1906,
"Normal School No. 1" began operating with three buildings,
a handful of teachers
and not many more students.
But it grew.
And in its 75th year
Eastern Kentucky University looks back on that growth with pride.
For it is the rich heritage of these 75 years
that allows Eastern to . . .

Look ahead.
That is the duty
of the University:
to stand on the shoulders of the past
and look ahead
to the future;
to prepare its students
for the future;
to prepare itself
for the future.
Robert Martin,
Eastern's sixth president,
recognized this duty
when he said
"Make no little plans.
They have no magic
to stir men's blood."

This combination of heritage and vision,
this sense
of the past and the future,
is what makes Eastern's present so interesting.
Here the old and the new stand together . . .

And here old and new blend,
not clash
For though the old sometimes must yield to the new,
The character of the old stays alive in the new . . .

Man seems to be vying with nature just now in an attempt to make our school grounds even more worthy of the name, "The Campus Beautiful." Old fences are disappearing, rough spots are leveling, old roads are growing green and new ones, long, straight, and clean, with semi-circular driveways leading up to the doors, traversed here and there by gracefully curving footwalks, are becoming hard and smooth. And the white crossed gridiron adds a speck of color to the scene. The Campus Beautiful!

—1911 E.K.S.N. Student

*That is why after 75 years of change
Eastern can still call itself
"The Campus Beautiful."*

The students of today are quite different
From those in the past,
and rightly so.
But they do not ignore the old . . .

It is the old they came to learn.
They'll take it with them
when they leave.
They'll use the old to build the new;
they'll use the past
to make the future.

Eastern's ideal would be to have her the property of the state. But is she not? Not at the best. Were she, the State would look oftener upon our efforts. Counties which send two or three students would send dozens for they would claim Eastern as their right. Eastern would become as an open book. Hundreds would come to give counsel, helpful criticism, and praise whenever it was found to be merited. Briefly, Eastern would be more greatly used, more frequently visited, more thoroughly counseled. She would be the State's joy, if she performed worthy service and the State's shame, if she did not rise to her obligations. And she would rise and she would fight with even greater energy than she now displays.

E.K.S.N. Student
Sept.—Oct. 1913

The class of 1913 would be proud knowing that Eastern has finally become the "State's joy." Now celebrating its 75th anniversary as a state educational institution, the University can look back on its history with pride. For 75 years, the men and women of Eastern have strived for the ideal. They've taken the small teacher's training school and made it into a major university in the state.

Richmond Gets Normal School

No. 1

By an act of the legislature of 1906, Eastern Kentucky State Normal School was established with an annual appropriation of $20,000 for maintenance. Not a vote against the bill creating the school was recorded in either house.

The citizens of Richmond were primarily responsible for their city being chosen as the site of one of the new schools for training teachers. Having had Central University from 1874, until its merger with Centre University in 1901, and then having been the home of Walters Collegiate institute, they knew the values of being a "college town."

Mayor Clarence E. Woods, Jere A. Sullivan, W. Rodes Shackelford and other prominent citizens led a group which lobbied to have Richmond chosen as the location for the state normal school.

Woods traveled to Frankfort where he covered an entire wall of the Old Capitol Hotel with literature designed to influence the legislators. The display was entitled "What Richmond Offers Free Of Cost to the State for a Normal School."

One pamphlet cover read:

What Richmond Offers

A ready-made Normal School Plant.

A main college building seating 800, worth $60,000.

A dormitory, 35 rooms, worth $30,000.

An athletic field, a grand stand.

A city with a college and a school spirit.

A railroad center — the most accessible point to the majority of Kentucky teachers.

The legislature was duly impressed and on May 7, 1906 Eastern became Normal School No. 1 and Western became Normal School No. 2.

The first regents were appointed in May and on June 2, 1906 Dr. Ruric Nevel Roark was named president.

Roark defined the goals of Normal, outlined the courses of study and selected the faculty.

During his term, the home economics house, a home for the superintendent of buildings and grounds, Roark Hall, Sullivan Hall, and the power plant were all completed at the "staggering" cost of $168,481.

Dr. Roark died on April 10, 1909 at the young age of fifty.

Four days later, Mary Creegan Roark, the late president's wife, was appointed acting president of the school. She served in that position until Dr. John Grant Crabbe was appointed in 1910.

*Rac-a-chic-a-boom, Rac-a-chic-a-boom,
Rac-a-chic-a-boom, Rac-a-chic-a-boom,
You know, I know, Speak up loud,
We know, they know, all the crowd,
Thank her, thank her, this is meant,
For our woman President,
Zip boom bah, Zip boom bah,
Roark, Roark, Rah, Rah, Rah."*

Eastern Gains Four-Year Status

Dr. Crabbe spent much of his term perfecting the organizational structure of the Normal School. Three Decades of Progress, Eastern's first recorded history, credits Crabbe with doubling the number of faculty members and increasing the maintenance appropriation from the state.

During his term, the president's home and a farm were purchased, an addition to Sullivan Hall was constructed, and laboratory and library equipment were added.

When the State Inspector McKenzie Todd visited Eastern in 1911, he wrote:

"In addition to his eminent ability and qualifications as an educator, Pres. Crabbe has proven himself a good business manager, has inaugurated many greatly needed reforms, one of which has been a splendid system of books and accounts, being able to handle the financial affairs along safe and economic lines.

"In regard to the general management and financial condition, it appears to me that the real work of the school has just begun to be felt and the future will mark a more pronounced effect on the general education in the State."

Dr. Crabbe left Eastern in 1916 to become president of Colorado State Teachers College.

Europe was at war when Dr. Thomas Jackson Coates began tenure in office. His was the first Eastern administration to see its male enrollment drop as men prepared for war.

However, enrollment rose once again when the war was over and life returned to normal.

In 1922, Eastern gained four-year status and became Eastern Kentucky State Normal School and Teachers College.

The Milestone and the Eastern Progress were both published for the first time that same year. Dr. Coates oversaw the campus' first building boom. The Cammack Building, Burnam Hall, John Grant Crabbe Library Building, and the Coates Administration Building were completed during his term.

Dr. Coates died on March 17, 1928.

Eastern Granted

College Status

Eastern's status grew as Dr. Herman Lee Donovan reformed the college's academic organization into divisions of instruction.

In 1935, The Normal School was discontinued and Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College was given the right to award graduate degrees.

Six important buildings were added to the campus during Donovan's administration. The Weaver Health Building became the home of the Maroon basketball team, which compiled a 225-51 won-lost record during the 31 seasons they played in this building.

The Keen Johnson Building, which housed the new student cafeteria, became the social hub of the campus.

Brock Auditorium hosted three decades of commencement exercises. Miller, Becham, and McCreary Halls were also built during Donovan's 13-year term.

Dr. Donovan left Eastern in 1941 to become the new president of the University of Kentucky.

War Years Change Campus Life

America was facing the prospect of World War II when Dr. William Francis O'Donnel became president. Five months after his inauguration, the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, and the war was on.

The effects of the war on Eastern were immediate: Enrollment declined by 77 percent by 1945, at which time fewer than one-fifth of the college's students were men.

The Milestone discontinued publication for 1944 and 1945, while the Eastern Progress changed its name to the Progress and Engineer, in honor of the many uniformed pre-engineering trainees on campus.

College football was cancelled for two years, and basketball was not played at the College during the 1943-44 season.

Girls on campus volunteered their services to help the Alumni Office mail out newspapers and write letters to soldiers.

And most importantly, 53 former students and one faculty member were killed or listed as missing in action.

The effects were also long range. "Veteran's Village" was constructed to house the veterans returning to Eastern on the GI Bill of Rights. The Village later served as housing for married students until Brockton was built in the 1960's.

In 1948, Eastern began to offer its first non-teaching degrees, and became Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College.

The Science Building (dedicated to those students who had lost their lives in the war), Keith Hall, and a music building were built during O'Donnel's term.

O'Donnel was Eastern's first president to retire from office when he left in 1960. He was replaced by a former state superintendent of Public Instruction, and the chairman of the Board of Regents, Dr. Robert R. Martin.

A Vision Come True

When Dr. Martin assumed office, Eastern Kentucky State College was still primarily a teacher education institution.

Eighty-two percent of the graduates of 1960 received teaching certificates.

The institution was relatively small. Although enrollment had doubled since World War II, it still stood at less than 3000 when Dr. Martin took office.

But, in his inaugural address, Dr. Martin informed the audience that Eastern would be going through changes. He challenged them to "think big."

"As we cope with the problem of ever-increasing numbers, we must realize that there is no alternative to becoming more inventive, creative, and imaginative in our use of the human and material resources which were available . . .

"We must provide here on this campus a place of beauty for gracious and stimulating living. Our building should directly and indirectly contribute to the training of the youth who frequent these halls . . .

"When we have accomplished these imperatives, then we shall have developed on this campus a spirit so powerful that it will not let us go. We shall have developed for Eastern a 'Vision of Greatness'!"

The massive building program which would later come to characterize the 60's at Eastern began in Martin's first year of office. Alumni Coliseum, Martin Hall, Brockton, the Ault Building, and the Gibson Building were all begun at that time.

Courier Journal columnist Joe Creason quipped, "Someone ought to put up a sign — Eastern Kentucky State College ... Under Construction."

Increasing the size of Eastern was only one of Dr. Martin's goals. Early in his term, he predicted that Eastern would enroll 6,000 students and become a university by 1970. His predictions were right but his timing was off.

Eastern enrolled 6,999 students in the fall of 1965, and early in the Spring Semester of 1966 House Bill 238 passed the State Senate and university status was granted to Eastern.

President Martin said that granting Eastern university status was just identifying the school for what it is, "a large, multi-purpose university." Later, he phrased it more simply, "It's like calling an orange an orange."

. . . A Vision Come True

Campus construction continued for the next eight years, with nearly $56 million being spent in that period. Thirty-six construction projects were completed during Dr. Martin's administration, including renovation of every building on campus built prior to 1960.

Dr. Martin resigned in 1976. He is now serving as state representative from Kentucky's 5th district.

Bicentennial celebration. Above: Dr. Robert R. Martin ended his term as president of the University as he handed the presidential medallion to his successor Dr. Julius C. Powell.

Powell Guards EKU's Traditions

There were 217 applicants for the position vacated by Dr. Martin. The Regent's six-member Presidential Search Committee gave Dr. Julius C. Powell its unanimous approval and he began his tenure on October 1, 1977.

"Eastern's position as a nationally recognized public university is one which I would jealously guard and seek to enhance," said Powell at his inauguration.

His administration has dealt with improving instruction and student-faculty relationships.

Enrollment has climbed to over 14,000 during the past four years, causing severe housing and parking situations.

The football Colonels have grown in stature and size. After winning their 100th game under Coach Roy Kidd's direction in 1978, the Colonels went on to win their first NCAA National Championship in 1979. This was the first national football championship ever won by any school in Kentucky.

Roark, Crabbe. Coates, Donovan, O'Donnell, Martin and Powell . . . these are more the names of buildings scattered around campus, these are the men who have led Eastern through its 75 year journey.

From the beginning years which Roark and Crabbe directed; to the war years that both Coates and O'Donnell had to deal with; and the depression era that Donovan encountered; to the building boom that Martin foresaw, and realized; to the present as Powell directs the course of the physically mature university — these are the men that began and continue Eastern's heritage.

Human history becomes more and more a race between education and catastrophe

—H. G. Wells

In the early days at Eastern the chaperone was ever present with instructions to guard carefully the students and to protect them from any contaminating influence. Miss Maude Gibson was called upon at one time to chaperone a married student with his wife and child to a fish supper in a downtown restaurant.

In the days when life was not so complex as it is now, there were various simple activities which contributed to the social life at Eastern. Each evening after supper, during early years at Eastern, students were permitted to promenade from six to seven, keeping strictly to the walk, with the assurance that the dean of women would be met at frequent intervals. Practically the entire student body and many of the faculty engaged rather regularly in this recreation.

Almost any evening during the week, if one chanced to look through the chemistry laboratory windows in the Roark Building, he might see Professor G. D. Smith leaning over a huge caldron of boiling molasses candy, with twenty to thirty boys and girls in the offing waiting to pull the delectable amber fluid and then end the evening very happily with such games as Clap-in-Clap-Out, Skip-to-M'Lou, and Post Office.

SUMMER

Lazy summer? That's when students relax, lie in the grass and smile into the sun at the buzzing of distant lawnmowers, relieved that someone else is working instead of them.

But not everyone had the summer lazies. For instance, the University played host to an International Volleyball Federation's Coaches Course. Volleyball coaches and athletes from 19 countries offered instruction in the tactics of power volleyball.

SCENES

An Elderhostel, or non-credit study and recreation program for persons 60 or older, was held also. Older citizens took such courses as "Backyard Wildlife Management" and "Southern Protestant Preaching."

Not forgetting the smaller folk, Eastern sponsored a summer enrichment program for gifted children. And 15 bands, including 1,303 musicians, marched onto campus for a week of bandcamp.

Eastern's summer clearly had something for everyone.

Tripling

Three's a Crowd, But

The fall semester of 1980 saw a record-breaking enrollment of 14,081, the largest in University history. This caused an increase in tripling in Case, Mattox, O'Donnell, Keene, Combs, and Martin Halls. Students discussed this problem more than classes, professors, and sometimes even more than the all-encompassing question of their dinner menu. But as much as they griped, they knew in the backs of their minds that there were advantages to tripling.

For instance, students developed muscles as they hammered on their bunk beds for hours, trying to get the frames apart. (It seemed that no one wanted to sleep with their knees touching the ceiling in the top bunk and they would feign nosebleeds if forced to sleep there.) Muscles were kept toned as residents quickly reassembled the frames under the watchful eye of the dorm director, whose look threatened "assessment" (a favorite word in housing vocabulary) if they didn't find all the pieces and put them back in order.

Next, tripling kept students on their toes. This was partly because all three residents could not sit down at the same time. But it was also because they always suspected their other two roommates of plotting to do away with them in order to take away their coveted allotment of cubits.

And students realized that those fears about the possible fire hazards from overcrowding were unwarranted. Students could be confident that if they went up in flames, there would be one extra person to fall on them and put them out.

Finally, tripling gave residents a real look at campus life — much more than they would have seen had their faces not been plastered to their dorm windows from the lack of space.

Tripling. Students paid to live like the sardines live for free. But at least sardines get to die first.

Tripling had its Advantages

Demand For Married Housing High

Married students need the roominess and privacy offered by off-campus housing but are often unable to afford large monthly rent payments. For these students Eastern provides one and two-bedroom apartments, as well as trailers and efficiency units. The demand for these units is quite high and some students had to be placed on a waiting list at the beginning of the fall semester. However, as the year progressed more units became available to be occupied by students.

Off-Campus Housing Provides An Alternative

Several trailer parks and apartment complexes offer older Eastern students alternatives to living in crowded dorm rooms.

For some students the quieter environment of an apartment makes studying an easier task. Others prefer the freedom from the structured atmosphere of dorms. Without the restrictions imposed by open-house rules, students are free to entertain guests however they choose.

However, along with this freedom came responsibilities. Students living away from campus must occasionally fight adverse weather conditions to get to class on time. Some students must take jobs to help meet rent and utility payments. But many students seem willing to make these sacrifices in exchange for their newfound independence.

OPPOSITE PAGE: Household chores take up more time in an apartment than in a dorm room, but off-campus housing does have its advantages: being able to cook, for one, as Steve McKinley shows. TOP: Keeping in tune with campus events is important to the off-campus student. The Eastern Progress is helpful in this area. LEFT: A popular misconception is that living off-campus means a life of continual partying. But studies play just as important a part in the life of the off-campus student as they do for those on-campus. ABOVE: Pets help make an off-campus place more of a home.

A Parking Sticker is "Only a Hunting License"

Due to the increasing enrollment, parking became a problem for students living both on and off campus. By the end of the '80-81 academic year 9,000 parking stickers were issued, but only 6,000 spaces were available, according to Thomas Lindquist, director of Public Safety. "A parking sticker doesn't guarantee a space, only a "hunting license," said Lindquist.

Although there were usually spaces to be found in Alumni Coliseum and Begley parking lots, the problem was that the location of these lots was far from the dormitories. Lindquist said he felt that the van service available until 2 a.m. eliminated any security risks to female students parking far from their dormitories late at night.

The University is one of the few American universities whose enrollment has been increasing, but according to Lindquist, the projection for Eastern is that its enrollment will level off in coming years. As for now, Lindquist can see "no easy solution" to the parking situation.

TOP: Even the not so choice student parking lots, like those in Alumni Coliseum, filled up very quickly . . . ABOVE: . . . But faculty and employee lots often had plenty of empty spaces . . . OPPOSITE PAGE: . . . Graduation Causes Mixed Emotions

It was “real world” time. All of a sudden that infamous day — the one we swore would never come — was here. And we faced the terms of our new freedom with mixed emotions.

Those of us who had been fortunate enough to find employment were trying to figure out why college had never taught us how to earn those precious dollars without resorting to actual “labor.”

And those of us who were not recipients of such jobs were trying to picture telling our parents that honestly, when we chose that major of “Fungus — Tomorrow’s Natural Resource” four years ago, it was a wide open field.

And our parents were alternating between pride and mathematical calculations of how well their newly graduated offspring could take care of them in their old age.

Graduation — the “real world” was ready, but were we?

“The Evil of

It's an old joke, the one where Mrs. Murphy tells the Irishman who asks for whom she voted, “I don't vote any more. It only encourages 'em to keep runnin', you know.” Still, old jokes (especially political ones) never die, Ronald Reagan was elected 40th president last November.

The emotion behind the point Mrs. Murphy makes is frustration. In that sense, her point was never more applicable than in the 1980 presidential election, one that was indeed dominated by frustration.

There was frustration with the length of the electoral process. Some presidential candidates began their campaigns fully two years before the election, while the primaries, conventions and final campaigns lasted better than a year.

And then there was frustration when, after this electoral marathon, the two major parties still failed to present two good candidates to the American voters.

Finally, frustration at Jimmy Carter's benevolent ineptitude caused his constituency to yank the presidential rug out from under his feet with a vengeance.

Fall Diversions

The autumn season was perhaps the most popular time of year on campus. The colors, the frosty chill in the air — the football games. It was a time of diversion and students were willing victims.

For instance, they spent long hours agonizing over whether to drag out their winter clothes and take the summer ones home and even longer hours making the move. Tests and lab reports had to be tabled in the interest of fashion and warmth.

And of course, fall was election time, and students got caught up in doing their part for the campaigning candidates and forgot about their chemistry papers. But, after all, Homecoming only comes once a year. (You thought we were talking about presidential elections, didn't you?)

There were the basic fall holidays of Halloween and Thanksgiving, too. Students had to allow time to design a Halloween costume which would win them the six-pack prize at the party (someone finally decided to wear a toilet seat around his neck, complete with a tire chain attached, in the hope that everyone would think he was a punk rocker ahead of his time). Plus after eating all that Thanksgiving turkey and Halloween chocolate, students had to change study time to jogging time in order to work all that off.

Finally, they had to spend time dreaming up something to tell their parents about those deficiencies that were winging their way to their respective home towns.

If only colleges would let students study "Fall."

HOMEcoming

As it seemed to happen every year, Homecoming festivities collided with midterm week, so students had to divide their attentions. But everyone knew what the priorities were. Homecoming obviously came first.

A western dance kicked off Homecoming weekend and the fact that it was also Halloween provided some strange outfits for the affair. After all, cowboys wearing Kiss makeup and sporting orange hair were seldom seen on those fabled ranges and prairies of yesteryear.

HOMECOMING: EASTERN GOES WESTERN

A 6.2 meter run preceded the Homecoming parade, where hundreds of die-hard athletes and those just pretending to be athletes turned out for the thrill of victory and a free T-shirt. As the race wore on, it became difficult to tell who was participating in the race and who was running to keep up with their floats.

Eastern's Colonels rode roughshod over undefeated Murray State 24-14, increasing their chance for the play-offs and shooting down Murray's opportunity.

TAMMY HAYS HOMECOMING QUEEN 1980

A colorful, warm, autumn day filled with balloons, bands and excitement set the stage for the pre-game crowning of the 1980 Homecoming Queen, Miss Tammy Hays. Sponsored by Kappa Delta Tau, Tammy is a senior from Jackson majoring in Special Education Hearing Impaired. Tammy is a member of Kappa Delta Tau, Kappa Delta Pi Education Honorary, Student Association for the Hearing Impaired, and is a Sigma Pi honorary Little Sister. In her spare time, Tammy enjoys horseback riding, quilting and spending time with her family.

FIRST RUNNER UP: INGRID VAN DUYNÉ

First runner-up Ingrid Van Duyné was sponsored by Clay Hall. She is an Occupational Therapy major from Los Angeles, California. Upon graduation, Ingrid plans to go to medical school in Canada. She is a member of Phi Kappa Phi and works in the Student Activities office. Ingrid's hobbies include tennis, horseback riding, jogging, and the outdoors.

SECOND RUNNER UP: SARAH FRETTY

Second runner-up was Sarah Fretty, sponsored by the Young Democrats. She is a junior from Richmond. Using her non-teaching English major, Sarah plans to work in community government. She is president of McGregor Hall Council, secretary of Young Democrats, and a member of the Sigma Tau Delta English honorary, the Arts and Humanities Curriculum planning board and Women's Interdorm. Her hobbies include travel, graphic arts and meeting people.

Wonders of Winter

Winter provided a time of wonderment as it quietly blanketed the campus.

For example, students wondered why it always seemed too cold and icy to go to class but never to go sledding.

And they wondered if they should have donned ski masks for warmth or remained “preppie” and risked frostbite.

Or why was it that all those campus snowmen looked better-dressed than them? And did that snow bunny they passed ask them what the special at Archie’s Pizza was or did they just imagine it?

And wasn’t it strange that the entire student body, faculty, and administration were on hand to see them take those embarrassingly klutzy spills on the ice? Or did it just seem that way?

Last, students wondered why everyone else got their classes cancelled because their professors could not make it in the snow when their teacher "crawled" three miles on her hands and knees to class just to give them the "benefit" of learning.

Winter on campus. A beautiful but puzzling experience.

Michael Murphy

Michael Murphy held the audience in the palm of his hand the minute he stepped out on stage and began strumming his guitar. Murphy entertained the audience with such songs as his hit "Wildfire."

Elvin Bishop

True to rock and roll tradition, Elvin Bishop, armed with his electric guitar, "jammed" with a crowd of about 500 people. The concert topped off a victory for ECU on the basketball court against Moorehead.

Taste of Honey

One of the highlights of Homecoming week was a concert performed by the soulful group "A Taste of Honey". They entertained the crowd with their hit "Boogie Oogie" along with other popular tunes.

Spring Spirits

Campus came alive with the sights, sounds, and smells of spring. It was a time when everyone caught the proverbial spring fever, and the only cure for it seemed to be large doses of sunlight and avoidance of as many classes as possible.

The ravine became a favorite for the athletic types who spent long hours catching a frisbee under one leg, under two legs, behind their backs, and on their noses. These students also demonstrated their athletic prowess in running the 100-yard dash when one of their curve shots occasionally crashed through the glass doors of the Moore building.

Other less energetic souls took advantage of the warm weather by just relaxing in the grass and formulating new excuses for going downtown instead of writing research papers that were due.

The sunny season marked the time of the annual student spring migration to Florida. Meanwhile, those unluckier students stayed behind to face the usual torrential downpours that always seemed to hit during spring break.

Finally, amateur student photographers and binoculared nature-lovers emerged to capture the scenic beauty of the season, particularly around the women's dorms as the bikini-clad ladies began working on their tans.

Springtime on campus. A time no one should have to miss.

Smock Brings His Message

He came to campus to bring the word of God, to convert the heathens and to warn of the evils of campus life. He turned the fountain into a pulpit and the student-body into a congregation.

Reverend Smock drew a crowd. It was hard to ignore his raving. Some listened to his accusations and quickly moved on; some, moved to argument by boredom, yelled insults back; while others quietly recalled the verse they learned in bible-school.

Hold your tongue in the hearing of a stupid man for he will despise your words of wisdom.

Proverbs 23:9

The St. Acme Guide to Judging College Students & Other Heathens A Handbook for Fingerpointin' Preachers

Lesson I: Identification

This is a pervert.
How can you tell?
The normal college
attire is a dead give-away. He lusts after everything that moves.
He creeps around at night pressing his face against windows and making eyes at animals.
He wants you, but he'll settle for a bicycle seat.

This is a slut.
She's been in more backseats than your mother-in-law.
Notice her exposed body? See those sinful knees and those naked elbows?
Shameless hussy—she probably has something written on her panties!

Lesson II: Vocabulary

Here are a few key words to use when addressing these vile disease-carrying scum-merchants:

1. Destruction (dee-STRUK-shən)
2. Fire (FIII-yər)
3. Sin (SEEE-yən)
4. Pot (mar-y-wannə)

He's a wonderful talker who has the art of telling you nothing in a great harangue.

—Moliere

He pointed at the kind of evil sluts that abound on Eastern's campus—the kind of women that wear shorts and make-up to class. He warned against the men who were lusting after those wicked women. Perhaps he didn't know that these same evil people were training to be teachers, nurses, and other community leaders; that they were training to help others.

He condemned the classes taught at the University. He predicted that the falsehoods taught in religion and philosophy classes would lead students straight to hell. Perhaps he didn't know that those evil classes were instilling in students the values of friendship and of love.

Smock tried to make people believe that they were living in a den of iniquity rather than on a campus filled with the beauty of nature and of man.

Perhaps he should have really looked at the University before he condemned it. He might have found love and friendship and beauty. Perhaps, if he had taken the time to look below the surface, he just might have found God.

Things are doing in athletics at the Normal this fall. The first football squad has been practicing every evening since school started, and is getting in good condition. On Friday the 23rd, a practice game was played with the Richmond city team which resulted in a score of 7 to 0, in their favor. It was notwithstanding, a success in every way, for it gave the men much needed experience and showed them they were weak.

It is somewhat of a mystery, that from boys that had never seen a game, that such a strong team could be made in so short a time. The boys on the team know the secret and the other students and members of faculty have an idea as to what causes such rapid progress. It is all due to the careful management and teaming of our energetic Coach. Boys, with such a manager as we have, with the President backing us up, and the grandstand full of enthusiastic girls, there is no defeat for us.

Kidd Named 1-AA Coach of the Year

Roy Kidd sits behind the desk in his modestly appointed office, surrounded by mementos of his 17 years as head coach of Eastern. There are photographs of his past teams, game balls and trophies from important victories. At the far end of his office sit two impressive trophies, one in gold commemorating last year's national championship, the other in silver for this year's runners-up. ("Those usually don't stay here," Kidd con-fides, "but we've got recruits coming today.")

Sitting in a chair close to his desk is another trophy which, in its sheer size, is perhaps the most impressive in the office. It is inscribed "Roy Kidd, 1980 1-AA Coach of the Year."

It's appropriate that this trophy be a large one, larger even than the team's runner-up trophy, for this year Kidd truly coached his team as far as they could go. Though they were the defending national champions, they were a shell of the team that won the title in 1979. Kidd didn't demand that this team win the title again, but he did his damndest to prepare them to try.

Kidd's philosophy is a simple one. "I'm a family man," he says, "I have sons. I treat my players like I want my sons to be treated."

It's this philosophy that Kidd has made the Colonels the closest thing 1-AA football has to an established power.

Defending Champion Colonels Have Shaky Start

With the memories of last year's I-AA national championship victory still fresh in their minds 15,200 fans turned out to see the Colonel's first foe, Kentucky State.

But the Colonel's 24-21 victory did not come easy.

After exchanging the leads a few times the Colonels found themselves tied at 21 going into the final minutes.

David Flores third field goal of the day was the deciding factor.

Next the Colonels met a psyched up Akron team.

The Zips, playing in their first OVC game, dumped the Colonels for a 21-10 victory.

The Colonels lead early but two second quarter Zip touchdowns gave the Zips the lead the Colonels could never recover.

The Colonel offense finally clicked against Youngstown and the Colonels rolled to a 45-0 win.

David Flores was the man of the day.

Flores finished the game with nine points, breaking an OVC record for most points by a kicker in a career with 203.

Their fourth game was at Austin Peay, and the Governors won this one — statistically. The Colonels however chalked the game into the victory column.

The Governors gained 364 total yards while the Colonels could manage only 294.

At the final gun however it was Eastern 23 Austin Peay 10.

The closest the Governors could come was in the fourth quarter when they came within three points.

A Flores field goal and an Alvin Miller touchdown put the game out of reach.

The Colonels hosted Middle Tennessee next but they were all but hospitable as they defeated the Blue Raiders 24-0.

The Colonel's offense was awesome totaling 402 yards while the defense contained the Raiders, holding them to just 150 total yards.

The Colonels fourth consecutive victory came at the expense of the visiting East Tennessee Buccaneers.

The afternoon was marked by Colonel offensive inconsistency but when the game was over the Colonels had posted a 25-6 win.

But next in Bowling Green, waited the greatest of the Colonel's rivals, Western.

For the Eastern fans this year however the outcome was all but enjoyable.

After a Colonel 10-7 lead in the third quarter the Colonels watched their hopes for an OVC title darken in the waning minutes of the game after two Western field goals.

And the final 13-10 Western victory sent the Colonels on to face Murray.

Nothing was going to spoil this homecoming. Not even the undefeated Murray Racers.

A fired up Colonel team wanted to prove they were number one and the 24-14 thrashing was good evidence.

The victory gave Coach Kidd his 117th career victory which tied him for all-time OVC coaching record.

A rejuvenated Colonel team started once again to think championship.

With visions of play-offs dancing in Colonel heads they headed south to meet Tennessee Tech.

If the team felt playoff pressure it was not evident in their 48-7 victory over the Golden Eagles.

The Colonel offense led on the ground by Tony Braxton totaled 522 yards.

The Colonel defense, tough as it had been all year, held Tech to 296 total yards.

It was a must win situation for the Colonels as they travelled to Greenville, North Carolina, to play the East Carolina Pirates.

The Pirates a division I-AA school, were only 4-6, yet the Colonel's 28-16 victory was still considered an upset.

The Colonels, never behind only saw their lead threatened once in the second half when the Pirates came within 14-10.

David Flores had four extra points in the game making him the Colonels all-time scorer with 224 points.

Flanker Jerry Parrish also set a school record for kick-off returns. His three returns gave him a career total 1,252 return yards.

Still unsure of a play-off position the Colonels entered their final game knowing they must win, but not knowing if that would be enough.

So Eastern faced their final OVC challenger of the season at home against Morehead State.

Morehead jumped to an easy lead but the Colonels once again found fourth quarter momentum and pulled out the 18-14 victory with 4:41 left when Isaacs scored from the six yard line.

The regular season was over and now the Colonels waited to hear of a play-off bid.

The Colonels had finished strong, winning their last four games, bringing their record to 9-2.

After a week of suspense the bid was announced. Kidd and team headed East to Bethlehem, Pennsylvania where they would meet for the second year in a row the Lehigh Engineers.

Lehigh, still reminded of last year's 30-7 loss to the Colonel's in the championship game, was seeking revenge.

The Engineers struck early.

Lehigh intercepted an Issacs pass at the Colonel 48 but a late hit penalty, moved the ball 15 yards to the Colonel's 33 yard line. Eight plays later Lehigh scored.

The Colonels now worked to erase the 7-0 deficit. After forcing Lehigh to punt on their third possession the offense started to drive from their own 32.

Six plays later Isaac found Bird open for a 17 yard gain giving the Colonels a first down at their 22.

A Lehigh penalty moved the ball to the 17. Three plays later

Miller carried the ball in for the touchdown. Flores missed the point after and the score was 7-6 at the end of the first quarter.

Two second quarter field goals padded the Lehigh lead and the Colonel fans began to get edgy.

The Colonels however turned the game around with 24 seconds remaining in the half with a 80 yard touchdown drive.

The third quarter was all Eastern as they tallied a ten point lead 23-13.

Lehigh cut the margin to three, and the final was 23-20.

Sacramento bound.

The Colonels headed to the Camellia Bowl where they would meet the Boise State Broncos.

The game lasted a total of 2 hours and 15 minutes but it all boiled down to the last 55 seconds.

Eastern playing comeback since the first quarter finally took the lead with a 60-yard bomb from quarterback Isacc to split end Booze. The Colonel's owned a 29-25 lead and the celebration began.

But the party was quickly quieted by a 14 yard Boise touchdown with 12 seconds remaining.

The Colonel's owned the title for 33 seconds before the first place trophy went home with Boise and the Colonels settled for a respectable second.

It was a humbling 31-29 loss for the Colonels who left the West Coast and returned to the shelter of home to remember and to forget.

Captain Jeff White led this group at pep rallies as well as many other exciting events.

New dance routines to popular songs such as "Another One Bites the Dust" and "In the Stone" encouraged fans to dance, boogie and shout a long while cheering for the team.

Every Way They Turned Was The Wrong Way

Where did all the victories go?

This looked to be a promising year for the Colonels. They had five returning players. Along with a successful recruiting period this factor could only improve the Colonels chances of an OVC title.

With James "Turk" Tillman graduated head coach Ed Byhre took steps to fill the offensive holes.

Tommy Baker, who was the second leading scorer last year, was returning. Baker, coupled with the experience and guidance of senior guard Bruce Jones, seemed sure to start the offense off right.

There was also a little extra for the Colonels as they signed Mr. Kentucky Basketball, Ervin Stepp to the squad.

But when the season ended, the Colonels had a 10-16 won-lost record, and were outscored by their opponents 1827-1829.

The season started at home with a Colonel victory over Butler 82-66.

But after eight more non-conference games the Colonels began conference play with a 3-6 record.

The Colonels, never able to put the season together, lost their last chance at an OVC playoff position with a final game 78-62 loss to arch-rival Western.

Still, Bruce Jones broke the OVC assist record ending his career with 699, and giving Colonel fans something to cheer about.

Despite the addition of new top-level competition the women's field hockey team still managed an 11 win 9 loss season.

According to Coach Lynne Harvel, "The team was on the road more than ever before which was very tiresome. The teams they beat here last year they lost to on the road."

The women, who qualified for regionals, had to first beat their biggest rival, the University of Louisville.

U of L lost to the women 2-1 in playoff competition.

The women however then lost in regional play to 9th ranked Old Dominion 2-0.

Sophomore Wilma Howard was the team's leading scorer with 11 season goals.

Howard, a walk-on last year, made the team's starting line up because of her own hard work and determination according to Harvel.

Sophomore goalie, Suzanne Hastings ended her season with an .883 save percentage which put her in the top 20 among collegiate goalies.

It was a season of anticipation for the women's volleyball team, as Coach Geri Polvino waited to see what her young and enthusiastic team could achieve.

For Polvino the result, a 31-20 record, was not disappointing.

"I felt that up till now the program had been sliding," said Polvino. "Other schools started awarding scholarships and their programs grew while we stayed still."

Now after three years of recruiting and rebuilding Polvino said she received "a very competitive and spirited team."

The women finished second behind UK in the KWIC state tournament and third in the AWIA regional championships. Besides getting two team members, Laurie Duncan and Deanne Madden, named to the All-Regional team, Madden and captain Nancy Stoeckle were also named to the All-State team.

According to Polvino this was a total team effort.

"Part of the success was due to the leadership of senior Sharon Walker and Stoeckle. The youth and enthusiasm of the freshmen gave the team a light-heartedness which also was a help," stated Polvino.

"Center Lori Briggs was a key role in running the offense with help from Stoeckle, who had the team's highest serving percentage with 63 percent," said Polvino.

And the team passing was not to be forgotten as Kaye Bieger and Walker combined for a passing percentage of 65 percent.

The defense was led by the 64 percent blocking of Stoeckle and the 68 percent average of the spiking combination of Duncan and Stoeckle.

"The pressure lies on next year's team to do well," said Polvino. "They recognize the potential and next year's expectations will be higher."

The 1980 women's cross country season was a time for learning according to graduate assistant Betty Mills. The team was an inexperienced team with four freshmen, two sophomores and only three senior members.

Senior Sue Schaefer, who was injured the first part of the season, came back to run well enough to be named Women's OVC Cross Country Runner of the Year.

Harriers Place Third in OVC

The Men's Cross Country team had five members to finish among the top 20 in the OVC Championship this year. Bill Morgan finished ninth, Gary Noel, 11th; Dennis Creekmore, 13th; Steve Angerman 16th; and Sam Cross, 20th.

These five, along with Andy Crowley and Terry Lakes, were considered the outstanding runners of the season by Coach Rick Erdman. Overall, the team finished third in the OVC.

The first meet of the season was the Marshall Invitational in Huntington, W. Va. The harriers finished third behind Morehead and Appalachian State University.

Third place seemed to follow the team as they also placed third in the University of Kentucky Invitational and the Kentucky Intercollegiate Meet.

Being the host team finally brought luck to the harriers and a team first place finish in the Eastern Tri Meet. Junior Sam Cross was the first runner to complete the course. The University of Cincinnati took second place and Morehead third.

Summing up the year, Erdman said, "No real records were set, but we ran good and hard together to take third place."

Netters Disappointing Season Has Bright Spots

The 1980 men's tennis team posted a 13-15 record for the season. Coach Tom Higgins said it was a disappointing year with the team finishing in sixth out of the eight places in the OVC conference.

Despite the losing record, there were some bright spots for the players. Freshman David Ghanayem performed well throughout the year. He had a 17-14 singles record, and with doubles partner Bibb Landrum, a 14-4 record. Ghanayem and Kurt Heuermann were also ranked third in the conference at their position in doubles.

Gymnasts Take Prestigious Miami Cup

The 1980 season was classified as an experience season and a building year by Coach Gerald Calkin for the men's gymnastics team. The team included three freshmen and two seniors, co-captains Dave Cole and George Gardner.

The team's 7-5 record brought about several new school records. It also included winning the Miami Cup. A 231.9 score was the new team high set against Georgia. The old team high was 224.2 set against Georgia last year. George Gardner set a record of 9.0 on the rings and Jon Gaertner a 8.75 on the high bar.

Overcoming youth and inexperience the women's gymnastic team compiled a winning season.

The women placed second behind a flawless West Virginia team in the prestigious Miami Cup tournament.

The women also set a school record, 138.05, enroute to a second place state finish behind regional rival, University of Louisville.

The season ended in regional action at Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

Murphy Leads Co

It has been six years since the women's basketball team had a winning season but this year it happened.

Under the guidance of two-year coach Diane Murphy, co-coach of the year in the OVC, the team finished 16-15.

The team started the season fast and strong, winning 10 out of their first 13, but discipline problems and some unfortunate injuries brought the women to a mid-season slump with the toughest part of their schedule remaining.

Led by the shooting of freshman standout Lisa Goodin, her 18.8 average was top on the team, the women finished third in the KWIC.

It was also a year for milestones. A tough offense topped 100 points twice and their free throw percentage was top in the nation.

Goodin led the nation in free throws for women and was fifth nationally in both men and women competition. She joined teammate Tina Wirumuth as a member of the second team in the OVC.

Swimmers Have Dry Season

Captain Chris Gray demonstrates record breaking free style form.

It was a rather dismal year for this year's swim team.

Consisting mostly of freshmen and sophomores it was head coach Dan Lichty's turn to rebuild.

Senior Chris Gray, the team's most valuable swimmer, set school records in the 500, 1000 and 1650 yard freestyle events.

The Eels faced a tough schedule including Cincinnati and the University of Kentucky.

The team finished 207 but look forward to the challenge next year holds.

Rifle Team Makes NCAA Final Four

It was a season of broken records, success and accomplishments for this year's rifle team.

Their first highlight was a third place finish in the OVC. This was the first year the OVC recognized rifling as a sport.

The team also took first in the Kentucky State Championship with a combined small bore air rifle score of 6065.

Then in the sectional competition the team shot some of their best scores of the year in their fourth place finish.

The combined team total of both rifle areas was 6195, which broke a school record.

Dan Durben shot a 1164 for the team high while teammate Karen Long tallied her career high with an 1157. Kim Floor also shot her career high with an 1149. Mark Bender rounded off the team with a score of 1138.

According to Coach Sgt. Nelson Beard, the season as a whole went well. "We shot about 100 points better than last season. There was also a lot of improvement," said Beard.

One of the team's highlights was beating last year's national champions, Tennessee Tech.

The team ranked fourth nationally and competed in the collegiate championships at West Point Academy.

Gaer Sets Conference Records

When the 1980 golf season closed the Colonel's found themselves on top in the OVC and ranking 19th nationally.

OVC coach of the year, Ray Struder, guided his team to an 89-46 record.

Remembering last year's loss to Austin Peay, Eastern tied a conference record 866 in the 54-hole tournament on the way to the top.

Senior captain, Dave Gaer, set two new conference records by tallying an eight under par 64 for 18 holes and a 10 under par 206 for 54 holes.

Gaer, along with teammate Greg Waggoner, made the All-OVC tournament team.

Season Frustrating; Reconstruction Begins

It was a rough transition period for the Colonels baseball team as they struggled to an 11-20-0 overall record and a 5-10-0 record in the conference.

For first-year-Coach Jim Ward, the record was disappointing, but he said the season was a success in other areas.

"We have built a championship caliber program and gained the respect of our opponents," said Ward.

The team was hampered by poor pitching; only one pitcher, Mark Parton, kept his E.R.A. below 5.00 with a 4.62. Sophomore Jim Harkins had a weak season but his 2-2 record and 5.82 E.R.A. was good enough to place on the All-OVC team.

A reflection of the team's frustrating season was seen in eight games which were decided by a one run deficit. Two losses at Morehead, 6-5 and 4-3, cancelled their hopes of finishing in the top four.

The team ended the season in fifth place but not without some glimmering moments. They set a team homerun record (led by Scott Quesnel with nine) with 31, while shortstop Kevin Kocks and second baseman Mark Klein broke a record by turning over 32 double plays.

Joining Harkins on the All-OVC team was freshman, catcher/designated hitter, Joe Myers, who hit a solid .344 and captain Kevin Kocks who hit .301.

The men's track team placed 30th at nationals thanks to the performance of high-jump standout Kenny Glover.

Glover was the highlight in an otherwise mediocre season which saw the team place fourth in indoor meets and sixth in outdoor competition.

Glover became the first track All-American in the history of the University when he cleared 7-4¼ inches in the high jump at the NCAA track and field championships in Austin, Texas.

One of the rare occasions he did not clear the seven foot mark came at the OVC championships when he finished second with a jump of 6-11.

In April he qualified for both the NCAA and the Olympic trials in Eugene, Oregon when he jumped 7-1¾ inches.

Glover finished sixth at the trials.

Women stay on Track;

For the second season in a row, the women's track team raced to a first place finish in the OVC.

The team, coached by Sandy Martin, also finished second in the Kentucky Conference behind the University of Kentucky.

Senior standout Teri Seippel led the Lady Colonels to a fifth place finish in the prestigious Becky Boone Relays, by winning the pentathlon with 3939 points. That also qualified her for the National Championships held in Eugene, Oregon.

Seippel made her presence known as she finished second in the pentathlon, and fifth in the 400 meter hurdles. Seippel, who qualified for nationals each year in the pentathlon, was voted OVC track athlete of the year.

Sharon Walker also qualified for the National Championships in the 100 meter dash when she sprinted to an 11.7 time at the Boone Relays. Walker, along with teammates Marie Geisler, Holly Foster, DeAnne Madden and Iris Amos were selected to the All-OVC team.

The responsibilities of University President J. C. Powell became more and more like those of an economist during 1980-81. A decrease in educational funding by the state and federal governments forced the University to make cut-backs in all departments of the school.

President Powell met with representatives from the university departments before the beginning of the school year to make the decisions of where the cuts would be made and how the college could cope with the decreased funding.

The year was not all bad news. President Powell travelled to California to watch the University's football team play in the NCAA Division-I championship game two years in a row.

The most crucial activity of the University Board of Regents during 1980-81 was the approval of plans developed to implement the absorption of a reduction of $2,300,000 in state appropriations available to the university.

Three individuals assumed seats on the Board during the year. Mrs. Hallie Shouse of Lexington was Gov. John Y. Brown's first new appointee to the Board and the first woman ever appointed to Eastern's governing body. A previous student regent had been a woman. Dr. Keith Algier, a professor of history, was elected faculty regent and began his three-year term, while Clayburn Trowell, Student Association president, served the year as student member of the Board.

In other actions the Board approved the University's operating budget for 1980-81, and reviewed and accepted the annual audit of University records which is accomplished by an external, independent auditing firm. The Board also acted on policy recommendations in the areas of personnel, academic affairs, and student affairs.

Four Years Plus

Despite budget cutbacks in education programs over the past year, the Graduate School at Eastern has continued to develop. A new graduate-level program, a Master's of Science degree in Community Nutrition, was approved by the Council on Higher Education, according to the dean of Graduate School, Dr. Charles Gibson.

"As far as cutbacks are concerned, I think the biggest penalty will be paid over a long period of time. The budget cut has resulted in a reduction of the amount of money we are able to pay graduate assistants and that hurts when we're in competition with other schools for graduate students," said Gibson.

The Graduate School offers degrees in 36 programs ranging from Agriculture Education to Vocational Education.

Dean Gibson has been in charge of the school since 1973 and has been at the University since 1962.

1981 Award Winner

Kemper Named To Hall of Fame

The official letter from the Office of Student Affairs read, "At a meeting on October 24, 1980, Mary D. Kemper, a senior from Louisville, Kentucky, was named as the recipient of the Hall of Fame Award for 1981."

Kemper graduated in December with a Special Education/Elementary Education major and a 3.920 GPA, and was hired by the Montgomery County School Board.

"My college education gave me the groundwork to teach from. It has made me feel more confident, more qualified, and more challenged to teach," Kemper said.

"I suppose the main reason they chose me for the award was because of my accomplishments in women's hall government."

Kemper was an executive member at large in Women's Interdormitory Board for two years.

Besides her work with hall government, she was also active in the Student Council for Exceptional Children. She was a member of the local chapter, the Kentucky association, and also the international organization of the SCEC.

Service in the Field of Health

Learning the body from head to toe, achieving certification to do CPR, gaining practical field experience and many other factors play a role in the courses of students that have a major in the College of Allied Health and Nursing.

Students with a major in this college are offered a variety of programs such as four-year programs, three-plus-one programs and two-year programs, depending on their particular major.

Closely associated with the College of Allied Health and Nursing is the infirmary. During the flu season this year it became the family doctor of many students.

According to college literature the primary goals of the college are to develop the potential of the students in the area of health studies and to prepare the students for service, teaching and research roles in the health field.

As a means of "on the job" experience the college provides clinical environments for the students to work in. These clinicals give the students the opportunity to work in a hospital or doctor's office before they graduate.

Dr. David Gale is the dean of the college.

RIGHT: Students participated in CPR classes as requirements for several courses in Allied Health and Nursing.

"I try to make sure that the students are learning; that they're getting what they need. I try to develop an open mind and to emphasize the need for continued education in the students. Continued education is particularly important in the field of Allied Health."

For Susan Long education in the area of Allied Health has become a career. Long has taught Nursing Care of Children, Fundamentals of Nursing, and Human Sexuality. She was chosen as the outstanding teacher from the College of Allied Health and Nursing.

Long received her bachelor's degree in nursing from Indiana University ("I'm a big IU basketball fan," she said.) and her master's degree in education from Eastern.

In her spare time, Long likes to read and entertain friends.

Susan Long

Laura Babbage

"When I was a freshman, I set my goal and went for it." Being chosen as outstanding student from the College of Allied Health and Nursing was not one of Laura Babbage's goals, but instead was an honor that came out of her activities and achievements at the University.

Laura was a nursing major with a 3.6 grade point average.

Among her activities during her college career was serving as president of the Kentucky Association of Nursing Students, being a participant in the Democratic National Convention and serving as a member of the University Center-board.

From Flowers to Printing; Technically it's Art

If the United States is the melting pot of the world, then the College of Applied Arts and Technology is the melting pot of university courses. Just as the United States is made up of people from different backgrounds and nationalities, this college offers courses for varied interests and majors. A student can study practically anything from Farm Dairy Production to Construction Material to Newswriting.

This college features a "hands on" approach to studying. Students don't just listen to lectures and write term papers. They get physically involved with their majors, whether it is making a table in Woodworking, chasing a preschooler in Child Development, or tantalizing all those who enter the Burrier Building with the aroma of food prepared during Meal Management.

The Dean of the College of Applied Arts and Technology is Dr. Kenneth S. Hansson. He began his career at Eastern as a teacher in 1966, and worked his way up to the position of dean in 1975.

According to Hansson, the College's departments are in the process of expanding and improving.

"There are several new programs of instruction before the Council of Higher Education. They include adding vocational agriculture with a master's of arts in education option, a community nutrition program, a broadcast option, and adding new Master's degrees in various other areas," said Hansson.

Dean Hansson feels that his college has an excellent faculty, all of whom strive for improvement and success. He also feels that the college's enrollment will continue to grow as the world's concern for energy and environment increases, since many of the courses in the college deal with subjects of this nature.

When Dean Hansson isn't working on campus he may be found enjoying one of his various hobbies such as gardening, photography, or playing tennis.

Dr. Jerry Joyner received the outstanding teacher award from the college of Applied Arts and Technology.

"I feel honored that people think that I do a good job at teaching," said Joyner.

Joyner was training for a career as a design draftsman when he was told of a teaching job open at Du Pont Manual High School in Louisville. He was hired for the job and has been teaching since then.

"I love my work and always try to be enthusiastic about the subject matter. I use slides and other examples to simplify and explain concepts and skills," said Joyner.

He teaches Presidential Architecture, Design, Construction, and Drawing; Technical Illustration; Product and Furniture Design; and Creative Problem Solving.

"I always am ready to help my students and listen to their problems if they need someone to talk to," said Joyner.

In his spare time, he designs and makes his own furniture and jewelry, drawing illustrations, and working with clay and wood sculpture. He also works with the Industrial Education Club and the Kentucky Industrial Education Association.

"I suppose the main reason I was chosen was because of my participation. I was active in two agriculture clubs, and I also managed to keep my grades up."

This is the way David Baltenberger summarized the fact that he was chosen as the Milestone Hall of Fame nominee from the College of Applied Arts and Technology.

A senior Technical Agriculture major, he also has a minor in Business Administration and a 4.0 grade point average.

"After I graduate from here, I plan to go on to graduate school and get my master's degree in Agronomy," said Baltenberger.

While at the University he was a member of the Judo Club, president of the Student Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America, and vice-president of Delta Tau Alpha, an agricultural honorary.

"I guess the only reaction I had to the award was that I felt honored, really honored to be chosen," said Baltenberger.

From the shrill of a piccolo, to the meter of a sonnet and all the soliloquies and impressionism in between, the College of Arts and Humanities provides students with the opportunities to express their talents through education.

The college also affords practical experience by presenting musical concerts, theatre productions, and art exhibits by the students throughout the year.

The Foreign Language Department of the college offers the would-be world travellers of the University courses in French, German, Portuguese, Russian, and Spanish, as well as the traditional Greek and Latin.

"The college is always striving for new curriculum, better teaching techniques, and newer aspects of majors," said Dean John M. Long.

According to Long, there are 115 faculty members and seven departments in the college.

"Probably with our college, student involvement is the most important thing. For instance, the Speech and Theatre Arts Department performs four or five plays a year, the Art Department has a gallery for work to be exhibited, and the Music Department performs concerts. Without students, these activities wouldn't be possible," said Long.

Dean John M. Long

"Variety is what you need to keep a student's interest."

This was one of the elements of teaching that Dr. Harold Blythe, associate professor of English, used in his classroom that contributed to his choice as outstanding teacher of the College of Arts and Humanities.

He teaches freshman English classes and sophomore literature classes, along with an occasional creative writing and literature theory class.

"I feel that lectures are important, but they tend to be boring. I mix lectures with audio-visual presentations and group discussions in the classroom," said Blythe.

Along with his teaching schedule, he is also involved with church and family activities. His hobby and second profession is writing.

He enjoys writing mysteries and has been published in the Ellery Queen Mystery Magazine, and has written several television shows.

"Maintaining a balance between extracurricular activities and academics is often difficult. Apparently my college felt that I had been successful in both areas," commented Beverly C. McKnight upon being chosen outstanding student for the College of Arts and Humanities.

Beverly is a Speech Communications and Human Relations major with a minor in English. During her four years at Eastern she has maintained a GPA of 3.946. Beverly has served as president of Kappa Alpha Theta, Public Relations Chairman of the Panhellenic Delegate and secretary of the Barrister's Club. Among the awards Beverly has received are the Phi Kappa Phi Certificate of Academic Achievement, a scholarship from Jackson County RECC and a scholarship from the Corbin Nibroc Association.

Beverly said she "was proud to be chosen to represent the College of Art and Humanities because it meant that I had earned the respect and approval of my own department."

Beverly McKnight

Remember when a student was trained in a business setting for a job? Not so anymore since Eastern has over 2,200 majors in the College of Business to choose from and it is the fastest growing academic unit at Eastern.

The students get not only classroom learning experiences but also on-the-job experiences if they choose. The students that participate in these situations also receive credit.

In addition to the students, many business persons in the region benefit from the College of Business. Various departments of the college offer special interest courses and seminars for the experienced businessman/woman as well as the business student.

Dean Howard Thompson of the College of Business says that "...the job market of business majors have increased. The biggest trend upward is women and minority students."

Dean Thompson went on to explain that the trend of women business majors has increased 50 percent over a five year period and nearly 10 percent for minorities.

Thompson was proud of the fact that 1/6th of the freshmen class majored in business and that they are still the largest unit on campus.

The College Placement Council had 25 percent job offers for Bachelor degrees and 1/3 of the offers were to women.

Thompson said, "I am pleased with the increase of students and interests in business, especially with women shifting to a traditional male field."

Business as Usual

Dean Howard Thompson

"You have to be enthusiastic about it your entire lifetime if you're going to be good at it, because teaching is a lifetime job."

This was Dr. Emogene Hogg's formula for being a success at teaching. Evidently it worked. She was chosen as the outstanding teacher from the College of Business. Hogg has been at the University since 1960.

In her spare time, Hogg enjoys traveling and jogging. The first semester of the year she was on a sabbatical leave that included a 13-day tour of Israel and Egypt.

Dr. Emogene Hogg

Michael Stevens

Michael K. Stevens, a 4.0 accounting major, is the 1980-81 winner of the outstanding student award for the College of Business. Michael's other awards include the Presidential Scholarship and the R.R. Richards Scholarship. He was also Eastern's nominee for the Arthur H. Carter Scholarship, which is awarded annually by the American Accounting Association. He is a member of the Accounting Club.

For most students maintaining a 4.0 would be enough to keep them busy, but Michael also works full-time to support his grandmother. Michael plans to become an accountant with a CPA firm.

Although Michael was very pleased to receive the award — his explanation, "My grades, I guess."

Awakening the Minds of the Future

Remember way back when learning was a dirty word? Not so with students who have a major in the College of Education. These students have a special interest in helping others learn whether it is elementary education, secondary education, or something as unique as special education.

Students get a taste of teaching before they actually begin student teaching. This helps them make sure that education is what they want as a career before they've completed three years of college.

But before students can actually begin the education curriculum, they must take the basics, be admitted to the program and then . . .

Dean Dixon A. Barr

Dixon A. Barr is the Dean of the College of Education and has been at the University since 1961.

Barr said that he is concerned with the opinions of students concerning the education programs. In order to hear these ideas, a student is chosen to be on the Teacher Education Committee.

He encourages pre-student teaching to let students know whether education is the correct major for themselves.

He said he feels confident that the education programs prepare the students well for the public school positions, rehabilitation education centers, and speech education in public schools and clinics. The programs also prepare the students for a variety of other positions.

In his leisure time, Barr can be found in the library researching his family tree. He is teaching a non-credit class in genealogy which reflects his interest in helping others research their family heritage.

Gwendolyn Gray, assistant professor of learning skills, received the "Excellence in Teaching" Award from the College of Education. She has been at the University since 1972.

Her major area of concern is learning skills. Courses taught by Gray are Rapid Reading/Learning Dynamics, College Reading and Study Skills, and Developing Reading Proficiency.

Gray said that she always loved going to school as a student and now loves her work as a teacher, which makes the school environment enjoyable to both herself and to her students.

"I want the students to know that I care and that I want them to succeed in college," said Gray.

In the classroom, Gray tries to create an atmosphere conducive to learning. Also, she said she tries to meet her students at a personal level.

"I learn each student's name and I try to meet their individual needs. I encourage individual conferences so that I may get to know them better," said Gray.

Outside of the classroom, Gray enjoys reading, sports, sewing and playing the piano.

Dean Russel M. Bogue

The 12-minute run, the “thump” of a tennis ball, the pain of a pulled muscle, and the exhilaration of winning a racquetball game— all of these come to mind when thinking of the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics. A college that for years was thought of as only supplying schools with coaches is now supplying public health agencies and industries with administrators and recreation leaders.

Not only HPERA majors reap benefits from this college. The superstars of Sunday afternoon gag football and backyard basketball get a chance to show their talents in intramural sports. This program offers eight co-ed activities.

Dean Russel M. Bogue is a sports enthusiast, as befits his position as head of the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics.

Bogue feels that the college prepares the students for a wide variety of job offerings ranging from teaching to government work to program directors for industrial recreation.

Recreational Education

Douglas Nieland, assistant professor of Recreation and Park Administration, received the “Excellence in Teaching” award for the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics. He has been at Eastern since 1969.

His major area of speciality is Therapeutic Recreation. Courses taught by Nieland include Special Populations, Leadership, and Gerontology.

The “Excellence in Teaching” award was a highlight of Nieland’s career since it is the first award he has received for teaching. In the field of recreation, however, Nieland has received the Fellow Award of Kentucky Parks and Recreation Society.

More important than the facts, however, Nieland feels the students should have a positive attitude when completing the course.

Douglas Nieland

RIGHT: Studies in HPER and A are not all on the courts. Virginia Jinks is shown with her class teaching the more academic side of the courses in the college.

David Cole

"I think I've been a leader in my department." This was the reason David Cole felt that he has been chosen as outstanding student from the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics.

Cole has been on the gymnastics team for four years and he served as captain of the team his senior year.

Following graduation, David plans to do his graduate work at Eastern and become a graduate assistant in the college.

"I was happy and proud when I found out I had been chosen," said Cole.

Safety for the Future

William Carfield

Mary Lee Stander

"The first time I suspected anything was when my teacher mentioned something about my big honor and then said he shouldn't have said anything."

This was how Mary Lee Stander first realized she had been nominated her college's Outstanding Student.

"I was real surprised, because I didn't think my GPA was high enough," said Stander.

Her majors were Forensic Science and Chemistry. She also was a member of the Collegiate Pentacle, Alpha Sigma, American Chemical Society Student Affiliate and the Association of Law Enforcement.

"I suppose I stood out because of my participation in a wide variety of activities. I was active in volleyball, women's athletics and intramural sports. There was also my involvement at the Newman Center; a little bit of everything," said Stander.

She was a council member and usher at the Newman Catholic Center and also the intramural chairman for the center.

She plans to continue her education and get a master's degree in toxicology.

There may not seem to be a policeman around anywhere else when you need one, but there certainly isn't a shortage of them in the College of Law Enforcement. They're almost policemen . . . many of them will be in a few years.

Who knows . . . a few years from now a student from law enforcement could be writing you a ticket, or saving your life.

"Our college is a trailblazer in its field in the Southeast."

This is how Dean Robert W. Posey proudly views the College of Law Enforcement. The college includes the Department of Police Administration, Department of Corrections, Department of Fire Prevention and the Traffic Safety Institute.

"I see the responsibility of the college as to prepare people to serve in law enforcement and criminal justice services. Our program is one of the oldest, 15 years, and one of the largest of its kind. People that head other similar programs across the United States are graduates of our program," said Posey.

Besides having a dean, a college must also have teachers.

"I greatly oppose treating subjects as if they are isolated in a vacuum. A teacher should be able to transfer learning to a situation."

With the exuberance and sincerity William Carfield made that statement, it helped to understand why he was chosen for the Excellence in Teaching Award for the College of Law Enforcement.

He has been at the University since 1973 and teaches Criminal Investigation and Security Management. Before coming to the College of Law Enforcement, he was director of university police at Northern Arizona University.

When asked why he felt he won the award, Carfield candidly replied, "Hard work. I decide what I'm going to do before the semester starts and try to keep up-to-date with the topics I'm teaching. I try to synthesize what the students have learned in other classes and relate it to my classes. Learning should be that way; not basic facts over and over again. After all, ultimately it all comes down to dealing with people."

In his spare time, away from dealing with people, Carfield enjoys dealing with horses. He presently has two of them and trains them mainly for Western riding.

Science, Naturally

The College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences is best known as the place with the formaldehyde smell, the big snakes in the glass cage, and the "funny" typewriters for computers.

It is in these classrooms that students dissect their way through animals before lunch and become intimately acquainted with the habits of fruit flies. They also learn to "speak" Pascal with a computer and make pictures with them in their spare time.

It is now also possible to get a little sun from the Gulf Coast and study science. The college has an agreement with Tech Biological Station and Gulf Coast Research Laboratory for students to do research in terrestrial ecology and freshwater and marine sciences.

But first they have to get through biology, chemistry, and . . .

Dean Donald Batch is just like any other dean. He has an office in the Memorial Science Building. He has a secretary to remind him where he's supposed to be. He comes to school every day and worries about things like who's taking care of arrangements for the annual Math/Science Day and where does the department get cut when the budget gets low.

Dean Batch listed several changes that have occurred in the college since last Year. There were some new courses added, including oceanography, petroleum, and developmental math.

"The college is also cooperatively offering chemistry with the medical technology program. This class is just for those students and is the first time to offer clinical training in the college," said Batch.

According to Batch, the college also participates with the Colleges of Social and Behavioral Sciences and Arts and Humanities to offer a Bachelor of Independent Studies degree.

"In this program, the student, along with our help, designs their own program of study. We had three or four students in it last year. We also plan to participate in an Honor's Program for general education with those colleges next year," said Batch.

When Batch does have spare time, he likes to garden. He has a university garden plot on campus property. He's also an avid sport's fan, like every university dean.

It's a small world in Dr. Raymond Otera's classes . . . a very small world. He teaches microbiology, pathogenic bacteriology, communicable diseases, and infection and control. He was also the winner of the outstanding teacher award from the College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences.

Otera has been at the University for 12 years.

"I try to be continuously up to date on the material I teach. After all, you can fool the students only so long. I am also concerned for my students. I like to ask questions and discuss with them to make sure they are learning the material," said Otera.

When not teaching, he is a consultant for five firms in biology-related areas. He also attends 25 workshops a year in order to keep on top of new material in his field. Somewhere in between teaching, consulting, and workshops, he enjoys playing golf and landscaping for relaxation.

"I challenge my students to perform, not just to pass exams," concluded Otera.

Sally Fisher knew she was excited when she heard she was nominated for the Milestone Award, but she wasn't sure what she was excited about.

"I knew I had been nominated for it, but I wasn't sure if it was from the Physics Department or the whole college," said Fisher.

She was a senior with a double major in mathematics and physics. She had a grade point average of 3.94.

She was a member of the Math Club and Kappa Mu Epsilon, a math honorary society. She was president of the Math Club during her junior and senior years. She also worked as a tutor in the math laboratory in her senior year.

"I suppose I was nominated because I worked so close with the Physics Department. I worked as a staff assistant and also taught labs for the department," said Fisher.

She had worked in the department as a part-time staff appointed assistant since her junior year and also won the Elementary Physics Award in 1979.

Science, Socially Speaking

Dean
Russell F. Enzie

No, no . . . you don't take courses in this college to learn to be social and behave. This is where the student learns to assist lawyers, plan communities, section the world in to layers, and help people in trouble.

It also has some of "those" courses that no one gets out of college without taking, like Man, Culture, and Society and Sociology. A student can also learn what makes his parents "tick", what Sigmund Freud really was talking about, and who Skinner and Pavlov were.

Whether a student is staying for a major or simply passing through the corridors to another major, this college has several fields of study to offer, and if it's geology the student is interested in, that can be taken literally.

Dean Russell F. Enzie believes the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences serves two purposes—to provide courses for major in social science and to provide courses for general education requirements.

"Real pleased."

This was the way senior Karen Chrisman felt when she learned that she had been chosen as the Outstanding Student in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

"I came up to my room, jumped up and down, and told my roommate," said Chrisman.

She was a history major and member of the Student Association Senate for two years.

She also was president of Collegiate Pentacle, a member of Phi Alpha Theta, and a member and senior advisor of Lambda Sigma.

"I've tried to work with helping out the campus. I don't think I was chosen because I did a lot, but because I got involved with the things I did do," said Chrisman.

The past year has seen three changes in the curriculum of the college. The first change was in the social work program. A new degree is now offered for that area of study, a bachelor of social work degree.

The social work program was also accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. Another stamp of approval was given to a different program. The American Bar Association gave its blessing to the legal assistance program in the college.

Finally, another major change was a new minor offered in the Department of Geography. This minor was created in the area of planning and development.

What does a dean do after a hard day of approving majors? Dean Enzie trains his golden retriever. He also enjoys gardening and reading. The dean participates in the great American hobby of being a sports' fan, or in his words, a "sports' fiend."

Karen Chrisman

Dr. Quentin Keen

"I try to remember I was once a student. I had problems. My greatest hate is of those professors that as soon as they become such, forget they were ever students."

This is just a part of Quentin Keen's philosophy— a philosophy his students appreciate as their election of Keen as outstanding teacher from the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences showed.

Keen teaches history— Southern and American history, Kentucky history, and research writing, a graduate course in history.

"I feel my students should have to sell others on government. They should be that interested in what they study. I try to get students involved in the classroom experience. I try to make an atmosphere where the students feel free to speak up, listen to one another, and feel free to argue if necessary," said Keen.

Keen has been at the University for 26 years. He was a teacher in the English Department before coming to the History Department.

He said he tries to let the students feel that he is their friend. He lets them know that his office is their office. Keen said he gives the students his home phone number and encourages them to talk to him if they have any problems.

"Students need someone older to talk to," said Keen.

To sum up his teaching technique, Keen said, "I work with, not just work my students."

Dr. Keen's history class.

Who's Who AMONG STUDENTS IN American Universities & Colleges

Every fall a select group of Eastern students is honored by their inclusion in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

This year 50 students were nominated for the Who's Who award. They were honored during the commencement exercises and the Milestone would also like to honor these students and offer congratulations to them.

The purpose of the PHI KAPPA PHI honor society is to recognize and encourage superior scholarship in all academic subjects. It is the highest ranking honorary here at Eastern.

Senior candidates from all colleges are eligible for membership. However, members are required to graduate with a GPA of 3.7 or above.

The spirit of organization has struck Eastern like unto a whirlwind. The following effective clubs are now not all prospering but absolutely sidetracking all thought of Method Rhetoric of Algebra II.

THE GIGGLERS (an organization patterned after the Y.W.C.A.) has gained mightily. No officers were elected owing to the necessary close race for high position. There is a prominent nominee for Continuous Giggler from Danville.

THE STROLLERS (who do not want any officers) have easily the banner in numbers. Doctor Crabbe and Dean Roark make up the board of directors.

THE GRAB-ALLS hail mostly from the cities. Membership consists in carrying twelve majors, six minors and looking plaintively out of copious goggles.

THE SHIRKS is a flourishing body established the first term. At that time Mr. Combs was made the unofficial leader. Since that time the recruits have been many. Some have gone home. "Gone" in the sense of having involuntarily withdrawn.

THE HELPFUL-SOULS (not a large number enrolled) is a needed club. They push, never knock; they encourage, never slam; they inspire by special attention in classroom, by talking, not gossiping, and we hope they will never disband. Let all students apply.

Education with Representation

Just as the United States has the congress to represent the citizens of the country, the students of the University have the Student Association to represent them. Each fall, a general election is held to select the association's members.

The Student Association sponsored a "Gripe Week" for students to write down their complaints or praises of the University. Work was also done on a new Student Association constitution.

The Executive Council acts as the cabinet of the president of the Association, and Student Court is a sounding board for students. Grievances by the students concerning administration policies and actions are heard by the court. Members of the court are chosen by the association.

Women Host Bridal Show

WOMEN'S INTERDORM which is composed of representatives from all of the women's residence halls tries to initiate and promote change in order to improve the conditions of residence hall living. They do this by providing social activities for women students and by promoting a better understanding between the administration and the Women residents.

One of the most popular of the social activities this year proved to be the Bridal Show. Hundreds of young women packed into Hiram Brock Auditorium to see the latest in bridal fashions.

Women's interdorm also sponsored a leadership workshop for Hall Council members and a basketball clinic for exceptional children.

They joined with Men's Interdorm in sponsoring the Monster Bash, an Election-eve double feature and the Restroom Register, a news letter which appeared on restroom doors throughout campus with the latest news on residence hall living.

Men Promote Change

MEN'S INTERDORM — Row One: Doug Hibbard, Wayne Spalding, Treasurer; Jamie H. Bauer, Vice-President; Bruce Leinweber, President; Bernard Sullivan, Scribe; Steven MacKillop, Dan Bertson, Advisor; Row Two: Chuck Burch, Scott Wilkerson, David R. Andes, Michael Crawford, Douglas Young, John Tillson, Andy Cecil, Robert Fifert, Jonathan Oaughn, Dennis M. O'Hearn, Dick Woods, Ted G. Pappas, Tom Gault, Melvin D. Burns II, Don Condiff, William Mitchell

Initiating and promoting changes for better living conditions in the men's residence halls is the main purpose of the Men's Interdormitory Board. Represented by men from each of the male dorms, the board provides social and educational activities and attempts to provide better communications between the administration and the students residing on campus. This year the group hosted the OVC Hall Government Convention and helped develop an open house revision policy.

They joined with Women's Interdorm in sponsoring the Halloween Bash and the Valentines Dance.

All proceeds were donated to charities including United Way and Easter Seals.

The Eastern Progress

The Eastern Progress was put together each Wednesday and published on Thursdays by a group of editors who spent the majority of their time coming up with story ideas, giving assignments to their staff writers and doing layouts of their pages. It wasn't an easy task—trying to keep up with classes as well as the paper.

The Progress got into a bit of investigative reporting, publishing articles on the bookstore, parking problems, tripling in the dormitories and budgetary woes.

Robin Pater served as editor of the paper, while Markita Shelburne acted as managing editor.

Betty Malking was news editor, Steve Mellon was features editor and Steve Thomas had the task of keeping up with campus sports.

Mary Luersen covered more than 150 campus organizations as organizations editor while Mary Ann McQuinn covered the arts on campus.

J.D. Brookshire was business manager of the Progress, assisted by Chris Woods who also handled distribution of the paper.

J.D. Crowe kept readers entertained with his weekly editorial cartoons.

Milestone

With the long road beginning in the fall semester, editors, staff members and photographers began the journey which would ultimately lead to the finished product of the Eastern Kentucky University Milestone.

Under the directions of Barry Miller, the fifty-eighth volume of the Milestone grew successfully after hours of patience and hard work in order to meet deadlines.

Another part of the journey was bypassed with the aid of the Delmar Publishing Com-

Field Showmanship

The auxiliary units of the band provided the color and movement that brought a touch of show biz to the football half time shows. Whether it was the flash of a baton in the afternoon sun, the swirl of a flag in a fall breeze, or the click of a rifle in time with a drum cadence, these units were the final touches to the Marching Maroons' performances.

This year Eastern's home football and basketball games were made more pleasurable by the lively dance routines performed by the Little Colonels.

This 29 member drill team was chosen following a 3-day clinic, which was conducted last Fall. During the clinic the prospective members were taught a routine which they later performed before a panel of five judges. The girls were selected on the basis of their poise and dancing ability. A nice smile was also a valuable asset.

The girls devoted much of their spare time (often including weekends) rehearsing the routines which were designed by the co-captains. Each new routine required a period of two hours a day for two weeks in rehearsal before it was performed at a game.

The Little Colonels are an independent organization which received no funding from the University.

Each member is responsible for furnishing her own uniform, as well as paying for other accessories.

Funds were raised from the sale of candy bars to refund part of the money each girl spent on her uniform. The remainder of the money was placed in an account to be used to help team members meet expenses.

The Panhellenic Council is the coordinating body for the social sororities on campus. The organization is composed of two representatives of each of the ten sororities. Panhellenic began the year by coordinating rush for fall and spring semesters. The council set up coke stands and passed out information and Greek Buttons to new freshmen and parents during summer orientation. A display room was also set up to familiarize students with sororities. The new ideas successfully helped pledge over 200 girls during the term.

The Inter-Fraternity Council experienced welcome prosperity and growth during the year. The number of fraternities grew on campus, increasing by one due to the expansion proceedings carried on by the IFC. Growth was also seen in the special seminars and workshops sponsored in an effort to promote the ideals of brotherhood, scholarship, service and leadership in fifteen fraternities and the new colony of Phi Kappa Tau. Through cooperation with national and regional fraternal organizations the IFC strives to maintain its ever increasing services to the social fraternities at the university.

The Delta Upsilon Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta was kept busy by participating in Greek activities and striving for scholarship and social ideals.

Theta's are proud to say they improved their grade point average to a 2.9, a markable achievement from the previous year. However, Theta's also showed their athletic ability by taking home the Beta Theta Pi first place trophy. They also participated in other events, such as the SAE County Fair, Lambda Chi Watermelon Bust and KA Old South, and the Theta's made a Homecoming float with the TKE fraternity.

The service projects, such as the Cystic Fibrosis Dance-a-Thon, washing car windows and decorating nursing home doors, kept the sorority involved with the campus and community.

Theta's had their spring formal in Knoxville, Tenn. and their informal dances were at the Sheraton and the Circus in Lexington.

This year marked the twelfth year that the Zeta Tau Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha has been active on campus.

Once again they distributed their traditional Dream Girl calendars at the beginning of the school year.

The Pikes also participated in the TKE basketball tournament and other athletic events.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity worked with two major projects this year. The group held the SAE County Fair and also sponsored the Miss ECU Beauty Pageant. The members' service projects included raising money for Cystic Fibrosis with work in a dance-a-thon.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON — Row one: Bryan Hughes, Jeff Hudepohl, Recorder; Mark Lile, Treasurer; Jeff Sproat, Correspondent; Rocky Bentley, Vice-President; Julie Goodin, Sweetheart; Bill Decker, President; Todd Burns, Frank Consalo, Pledge Educator, Steve Smith. As the semester began, five Sigma Chi brothers returned from the National Leadership Workshop in Texas with a new knowledge and sense of brotherhood. This enthusiasm seemed to set the tone for the entire year.

Again, as in the past, the Sigma Chi Derby was a big success with proceeds going to the national service project, Wallace Village. The annual haunted house was a huge success. This year was the biggest turnout in recent years, and again, the proceeds went to Wallace Village.

The Sigma Chi's also showed a serious side by going Christmas caroling with the Kappa Delta sorority. They also attended church services in the community throughout the year. These experiences seemed to strengthen the fraternity's sense of brotherhood.

The annual Homecoming Dance was held in Lexington, and the Spring Formal was in Knoxville, Tennessee.

Riggins. Row five: Ed Woods, Brad Baker, Pam Vicars, Ron Charpol Ross, Terry Justice.

The Epsilon-Lambda Chapter of Sigma Pi Fraternity was chartered on April 22, 1978, and has been active on campus since then. This year Sigma Pi co-sponsored the Greek Superstars with Pi Beta Phi.

Sigma Pi received the "Community Service" award at their 1980 summer convention. This year's service projects included clearing out a Begley's warehouse, Christmas baskets for the needy, an Easter egg hunt for underprivileged children and participation in IFC's basketball game for Muscular Dystrophy. Sigma Pi placed second in the banner contest at the IFC game.

The Sigma Pi's held their homecoming dance at the Downtowner in Lexington and Spring Formal at the Hyatt Regency. In April, Sigma Pi hosted their annual Pig Roast Softball Tournament with surrounding chapters.

The Theta Chi Fraternity continued to excel in academics and sports. They ranked near the top of the campus fraternities with their member's grade point average and were in close contention for the all sport's trophy.

They won the Sigma Pi and Pi Beta Phi Superstars Trophy for the second consecutive year. The fraternity also raised money for Easter Seals during their Rally Week.

THETA CHI: Row one: David P. Farrell, Steve Harper, Pledge Marshal; Robert S. Crapsey, Secretary; James E. Gillespie, Vice-President; Liba Jeffries, Dream Girl; Scott Brown, President; Keith A. The men of Mu Beta Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon again made the most of the school year. Tekes dominated fall semester athletics by bringing home the SAE County Fair trophy and winning the fraternity division intramural football championship. Twenty-nine teams battled it out for the hardware in the annual TKE basketball tournament.

Not neglecting their obligations to the campus and community, Tekes raised $1,100 for the St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital. The brothers also helped other fraternities not fortunate enough to have their own house by inviting them to mixers at the TKE house.

This year was an outstanding as well as productive year for the brothers of Sigma Nu. It was outstanding in that they ranked second in grade point average and they were successful in money-raising activities such as a bike-a-thon to Western and the Cerebral Palsy Telethon.

A major productive change for the fraternity was a new tactical approach to rush, which yielded a motivated pledge class.

The Theta Theta Chapter visited their national headquarters at Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Virginia, where they gained much knowledge and information for the fraternity.

The Eta Zeta Chapter of Zeta Phi Beta had a busy, yet interesting year of fulfilling their goals of finer womanhood, scholarship and community service. Their service projects consisted of a Christmas program at Shriner's Hospital for handicapped children, work with the Red Cross Bloodmobile, donated Christmas gifts to the senior citizen's home in Richmond, participation in the Cystic Fibrosis dance-a-thon, contributions to the Mark Singleton Scholarship Program, and participation in the March of Dimes Walk-a-Thon.

Zetas were also active socially with dances, stepshows, Greek events and the organization and planning of Zeta Week.

ZETA PHI BETA — Row one: Melody Turner, President; Glandia (Tina) Carter, Vice-President; Sherry Rucker, Treasurer; Nina Frazier, Secretary; Roxana Allen, Dean of Pledges.

Involvement involvement involvement involvement involvement

The classroom is not the only place where students can receive an education. Some of life's best lessons are taught to us by friends and personal experiences.

In order to get the best that the University has to offer, many students become involved in organizations in that search for the "other" education.

Not everyone wants to get involved, but the person who does has to be willing to work with others. He must be willing to give his time, his energy and sometimes his money in order to gain that special closeness that develops only in groups united in a common cause.

Organizations, athletics, Greeks — they all offer that "other" education.

In later life as in earlier, only a few persons influence the formation of our character; the multiple pass us by like a distant army. One friend, one teacher, one beloved, one club . . . are the means by which his nature and the spirit of his nature affect the individual.

Editor's Note

I've been working with the Milestone for four years now, but this was my only year as editor. Not until this year did I fully appreciate the pressures that face the editor of a project this large. So I must first thank the three editors that preceded me: Allen Engle, Meg Hiles and especially Chris Elsberry, who brought a lot of creativity to last year's book, and taught me a lot about putting together a yearbook. These are thank you's long over due.

As for the 1981 edition of the Milestone, it would not have been finished without my managing editor, Donna Bunch. Besides editing each layout and every word of copy in the book, she put together the 75th anniversary section. She also completed the better part of the Organizations section in a very short time, due to a mid-year change of editors. She did such a good job that I decided to marry her.

Leslie Kunkle, Organizations co-editor last year, came back to help finish the Greek section this year, even after she swore never to set foot in the office again.

Karen House also worked on some Organizations pages with Donna and Leslie. In fact, Karen worked on some Sports pages, and some 75th anniversary pages, and some Student Life pages. In her spare time, Karen was the academics editor, and did a fine job of putting some life into a section I thought was doomed to be dreary. For finishing her own work, and helping finish everybody else's, Kay deserves thanks from the whole staff — but especially from me.

Cheryl French was the only section editor who didn't need help from Karen. Though her section (Classes) was the first one due, Cheryl accepted the responsibility and did her job.

Since the strength of any yearbook is in its photography, the photographic staff from Public Information should be commended. Brian Potts, Will Mansfield, Connie Langley and Eric Shindlebower continued the Milestone's tradition of excellence in student photography.

I especially thank University Photographer Paul Lambert, the frustrated wit who oversees the student photographers, in addition to providing us with many of his own skillfully-taken photographs. Paul also went above and beyond his job description by helping out on the index section, arranging group pictures for Organizations, and facing the bitching of many groups who were mis-scheduled by someone else.

Paul's fiancée, Terri Slone, also pitched in and helped us a great deal right before (and, unfortunately, right after) deadline time. She wore out three typewriters typing copy for us, and spent her spring break working on the index.

Also deserving of thanks are the Milestone's advisor, Larry Bailey, and Donald Feltner, Vice President of Public Affairs. Even though Eastern sustained a $2.3 million budget cut this year, the Milestone was still distributed free of charge this year. For that they don't deserve my thanks as much as they deserve yours.

Thank you also to my other section editors: Donna Valerius, Student Life and Denise Larson, Sports.

Thank you also to Missy White, for injecting a much needed dose of creativity into her Student Life layouts.

Thank you's also go out to Delmar Publishing Company and all the people there who worked on our book, especially Ralph Van Dyke, Becky Alexander and Bill Stoess.

And finally, thank you to the Eastern Kentucky University Student Body, and the whole EKU community for making this year worth covering in this book, and remembering forever.

Barry Miller

SPECIFICATIONS

The 1981 MILESTONE was prepared by the students of Eastern Kentucky University and printed by offset lithography by Delmar Printing Company, Charlotte, North Carolina.

The paper stock is 80 pound Wesvaco Sterling Gloss Enamel with the special historical section printed on Hopper Skytone brown.

The cover is a special design brown Cordoba with embossed design, gold foil top stamping, a black overtone rub, and a special Skiver grain.

Body copy is 12 point Century Schoolbook with 2 points of leading. All cutlines are 8 point Century Schoolbook, and headlines are 36 point Century Schoolbook bold. The special historical section is printed in a mix of brown/black ink.

Cameras used to photograph activity pictures for both four-color and black and white included Nikon (35mm), and Hasselblad (2¼ x 2¼). Focal length lenses used range from wide angle, 18mm, to telephoto 500mm. Senior and underclass portraits were photographed by Yearbook Associates, Millers Falls, Mass.

Press run was 7,500 copies.
